Bryan M. Kozlowski

Bryan is a senior strategy professional with more than 15 years of experience working with senior executives to identify and solve critical business issues. He has a strong background in developing actionable business growth, market entry, product development and marketing strategies for leading asset management firms. Additionally, Bryan has due diligence experience working with both private equity and venture capital firms on prospective investments.

Bryan has held a number of senior strategy and operations roles including leading Greenwich Associates' Investment Management Strategic Advisory practice and serving as COO of McLagan's Infrastructure Services team. He was also a senior member of management consultancy Casey Quirk, where he worked with asset management executives on marketing, investment platform and business strategy engagements. Prior to his time at Casey Quirk, Bryan was a Vice President in Morgan Stanley's Competitive Strategies Group where he focused on the strategic initiatives of the firm's asset and wealth management businesses.

Bryan earned a B.A. in Political Science from the College of the Holy Cross and an M.B.A in Finance, Marketing and Strategy from Northwestern University's Kellogg School of Management.